

11 Nov. 1950

This paper is loaded with important policy matters.

It is on the right track and the area specialist said that he agreed in general with the assumptions and the conclusions.

The paper leaves wide open many jurisdictional questions. It gets over into the subject of resistance movements which is an OPC mission.

It is a stimulating paper but it deals with matters which are outside the field of competence of the Department of State and the High Commissioner.

The trip of Carroll and Speier was well worth the expense and trouble involved.
